

Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement

Statement from the Chairman (extract from our Code of Ethical and Professional Conduct)

'Our code of ethical and professional conduct is an integral part of the Abbey DLD Gold Standard: the values we stand for are just as important as the services we provide. We expect governors, teachers, managers and all staff within the Group to comply with this code and to act with the highest levels of professionalism and integrity.'

Tim Haynes, Chairman, Abbey DLD Group

Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

Consistent with our commitment to act ethically in all our relationships, and our zero tolerance of unethical or exploitative employment practices, we are committed to doing what we can to combat slavery and human trafficking. We will not engage in business with any party whom we deem to present a risk of participating in slavery or human trafficking.

Risk evaluation

Our business is the ownership, development, governance and management of a portfolio of independent schools in England.

Though not directly geared towards anti-slavery and human trafficking, our highly-rigorous policies, procedures and staff training in child welfare and safeguarding contribute to an environment which is sensitive to the detection of the types of exploitation and abuse contemplated by the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Most of our 'supply' costs are represented by qualified teachers. All staff (teaching and non-teaching) are employed in accordance with:

- the law,
- professional best practice in human resource management, and
- strict recruitment practices governed by statutory guidelines relating to the welfare and protection of children

For certain key outsourced services, such as catering and building maintenance, we use a small number of key suppliers whose staff are regularly present on our premises. We have well-established and trusted relationships with these suppliers. We obtain written assurances from them that their staff are appropriately trained, and have been subject to the appropriate statutory checking to work in environments with children. Consistent with these processes, we now also require these suppliers to give us assurances (where they don't produce their own Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement) that they have controls and processes in place to ensure that they do not engage in slavery and human-trafficking, and that they will not engage with any other party who presents a risk of engaging in such activities.

Consequently, we are satisfied that the practices of our suppliers present a negligible risk of supporting slavery or human trafficking.

Communication of our policy

This statement is published on our website at <https://www.abbeycolleges.co.uk/>

Explicit reference to Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking is also made in our Whistleblowing (Malpractice Disclosure) policy, along with the clarification of our expectation that any suspicion or evidence of slavery or human trafficking be disclosed.

Reference to our policy on Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking is also explicitly referenced in our Code of Ethical and Professional Conduct. All staff, including Heads, Principals and Governors, are obliged to sign an annual affirmation that they have read and understood the Code, and that they have made any relevant disclosures.

This Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement, along with all our policies, is also available to all staff on our internal Portal.
